Banks Had Record of Assaults, Rostraver Constable Tells Jury

ROSTRAVER FAIR QUEEN — Pretty Miss Delphine Morgan was crowned queen of the 15th annual Rostraver Township Fair last night during impressive opening night ceremonies at the Junior High Stadium. Miss Morgan, who will reign through tomorrow, was presented her queen's crown by Mrs. Jean Budd, president of the Band Parents Association. It was that organization which sponsored the queen contest.

Church Music to Feature Program at Rostraver Fair

A program of church music will feature tonight's entertainment at the 15th annual Rostraver Twp. Fair.

A combined choir from township churches will present a musical concert entitled "The Singing Church" from the fair stage at the Junior High Stadium beginning at 8:30 p. m.

Two other activities are also scheduled for the outdoor stage. At 7 p. m., the United Boys Brigade Drum and Bugle Corps of Monessen will put on an exhibition. At 5:30, midget league baseball teams from Concord and Webster will collide.

Cattle judging will take place at 2 p. m. today.

The fair opened yesterday under clear skies, during the largest opening-day turnout in history.

Many Exhibits

Fair officials also reported the largest number of farm and commercial exhibits in the 15-year history of the event.

A highlight of last night's entertainment at the Junior High Stadium was the crowning of Miss Delfine Morgan as fair queen. She and her attendants were transported to the Stadium by convertibles.

The Rostraver High School band offered a concert and a midget league baseball game was staged.

Competition at the fair is divided into three main classifications: home economics, livestock and farm produce. Winners in some of the divisions will be announced tomorrow.

Low Bidders on Perry School Building Listed

The state Public School Building Authority has received unofficial low bids totaling $1,150,713 for construction of additions and alterations to the Perry-Lower Tyrone joint secondary school in Perryopolis.

The bids were opened yesterday in Harrisburg. Construction is expected to begin within a month.

The new school will be known as Mary Fuller Frazier High and is one of the projects authorized by the executors of the famed Mary Fuller estate bequeathed for the betterment of Perryopolis.

About $200,000 of the building cost will be supplied by the estate. An additional $125,000 of the bequest will be used later in purchasing equipment.

Fairchance Lumber Co., Fairchance, submitted an unofficial low bid of $761,500 for general construction work. Other low bids included, McCarls Plumbing & Heating Co., Beaver Falls, $176,846, heating; Woody Heating & Plumbing, Uniontown, $82,617, plumbing and Electrical Service Co., Brownsville, $129,750, for electrical work.

Ike for Peace Despite Soviet Russia Roadblocks

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower said today that persistent Soviet scorn for Western arms reduction proposals might condemn humanity to "an indefinite future of immeasurable danger."

Eisenhower pledged this country's continued efforts to find a true road to peace despite Russia's bitter attack in London Tuesday on Western proposals for aerial inspection of the United States, Russia and Canada.

The Chief Executive set fourth his views in a special statement issued after a one-hour White House meeting with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. Eisenhower said the "scornful words" used Tuesday by Valerian Zorin, the Soviet disarmament delegate, were "deeply disappointing to all true lovers of peace."

Referring to Russia's announcement this week that it had successfully tested an intercontinental ballistics missile, the President said:

"It is noteworthy that this (Zorin) attack coincides with the boastful statement by the Soviet Union that they have made advances in the development of means for bringing mass destruction to any part of the world."

Daniel Myshin Is Named Solicitor by Local School Board

Daniel Myshin, 30-year old local attorney, was elected solicitor for the Monessen School District during a brief meeting of the Board of Education last night.

Myshin will serve through this December, completing the unexpired term of the former solicitor, David H. Weiss, who was required by law to resign when Gov. George M. Leader appointed him as a common pleas judge in Westmoreland County.

Myshin was one of four attorneys interviewed by school officials for the solicitor job, which pays $1200 annually.

However only one other — Louis Manderino — was placed in nomination when the directors voted on the issue. Also interviewed were Bernard S. Shire and Gilfert M. Mihalich.

Manderino received two votes in the balloting. Four directors favored Myshin.

To Rotate Solicitorship

Before the voting, the directors agreed "informally" to rotate the solicitor position every two years.

"Every one of the four men interviewed has excellent qualifications," said Board President John Lancas prior to the nominations.

Lancas then told the Board that Shire had informed him that he was not available at this time, but wished to be considered for the position in the future.

Myshin's name was placed in nomination by John Kossar. Manderino was nominated by Romeo Furio.

Lancas then asked a member of the Board to nominate Mihalich, pointing out that he was unable to do so as presiding officer. No director responded and the voting proceeded.

Kossar, Nick Cullen, Alex Kachmarik and Dr. Joseph Dudas voted for Myshin. Furio and Lancas balloted for Manderino, with Lancas explaining that his original choice had been Mihalich.

Unanimous Ballot

Furio then moved that the secretary cast a unanimous ballot for Myshin. This was approved without commen.

Before the voting, each director pointed out that all four of the interviewed attorneys were capable and qualified. They all repeated the opinion that the solicitor position should be rotated every two years.

During this discussion, Kachmarik observed:

"That's what I've been proposing ever since I joined this Board."

In the past, Kachmarik had opposed the election of Weiss, longtime school solicitor.

Myshin is a Monessen native. He graduated from Monessen High School in 1945, then earned a degree in business administration at the University of Pittsburgh.

In 1955, he was graduated from the National University Law School in Washington, D. C. On February 14, 1956, he was admitted to the Westmoreland County bar and immediately opened law offices here at 130 Sixth St.

Myshin is married and the father of an eight month old son. His family lives at 230 Lenawee Ave.

Flu Vaccine to Arrive in City Late This Week

A shipment of Asian flu vaccine is scheduled to arrive in Monessen late this week or early next week, it was learned today.

According to health authorities, the vaccine is the only known protection against a flu epidemic which is expected to sweep the nation this fall or winter.

As yet, no known cases of the Asian flu have been reported in the city.

"Many of my patients this past week thought they had the flu, but none really did," said one Monessen physician.

Another type of vaccine is scheduled to arrive in Monessen late this September. It is supposed to provide protection against four different types of the flu.

Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney has forecast that between 80 and 85 million doses of the Asian flu vaccine will be produced by Jan. 1. That will be enough to inoculate about half of the U. S. population.

However public health officials still feel the demand will exceed the supply.

They suggested that doctors, nurses and others who "care for the sick" should be the first in line, followed by persons who suffer "chronic diseases" such as heart trouble, diabetes and tuberculosis. The latter are particularly susceptible to the serious complications, such as pneumonia, which sometimes follow flu.

Three Held in Donora; Suspects In Car Theft

Three teen-aged youths — two of them from Monessen — were arrested last night by Donora police, apparently in the possession of a stolen car.

The youths were identified by police as:

Steve Tellep, 17, of 57 Pacific Blvd., Monessen; Harry Laatu, 18, of Motheral Ave., Monessen; and William Manor, 18, of Elizabeth R. D. 3.

Donora police took the young men to the Belle Vernon State Police barracks this morning for further questioning. However, state police said they had no information to release concerning the arrest.

Reportedly, the boys were being questioned in connection with an auto theft in Charleroi on Aug. 19.

Two Re-arrested In Hays Holdup

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Two Pittsburgh men were re-arrested by FBI agents Tuesday in connection with a daring $47,000 holdup of the Hays branch of the People First National Bank and Trust Company.

The men, James T. Herron, 22, and Paul P. Woods, 23, had been arrested a short time after the holdup last Jan. 29 and then released for lack of evidence.

U. S. Commissioner Alex McNauher set Sept. 10 as the date for a hearing on whether the government had sufficient evidence on which to hold the suspects. Bond for each was fixed at $25,000.

A third man suspected of taking part in the robbery, John R. Ward 30, Pittsburgh, is serving a sentence in Allegheny County jail on burglary charges.

Wall Repairs at Local School To Cost $30,000

The Monessen School Board's plan to repair the west wall at the Washington elementary school ran into trouble last night when bids on the improvement turned out to be considerably more than anticipated.

Two bids on the project were opened during a special meeting of the Board of Education and both were far above expectations.

Haury's Construction Co. submitted a bid of $29,700 and an alternate bid of $30,850. The Monessen Contracting Co. asked for $32,050 and $34,000 on the alternate specifications which called for different type windows.

Dr. Joseph Pallone, school superintendent, told the directors he had estimated the improvement cost at "about $15,000 and $20,000 at the most."

"It's difficult to guess at the cost of such improvements," Dr. Pallone stated. "To meet the higher figure, we would have to trim our budget from top to bottom."

Dr. Pallone agreed with the directors that the west wall of the building demands "immediate attention." But he requested a two-week delay in the awarding of the bid to provide time to "scrape up the added money."

40 Working Days

In submitting the low bid, Haury Construction Co. informed the board that the project would take 40 working days.

"Even with the two-week delay, we would be able to have the work completed before cold weather sets in," Dr. Pallone pointed out.

The Board then unanimously voted to table the bids for two weeks in compliance with Dr. Pallone's request.

The improvement at Washington School will consist of tearing

Weightman Claims Victim Withdrew Charges Each Time

Rostraver Twp. Constable Harry Weightman testified today in the wife-murder trial of Edward Banks that he had arrested the defendant four times on complaints filed by the victim.

Weightman told the jury of six men and six women in Westmoreland County courthouse, Greensburg that on each occasion Mrs. Banks withdrew the charges against her husband.

He said the arrests were made on charges of assault and battery, surety of the peace and disorderly conduct.

The 30 year old Banks, a Pricedale millworker, is accused of shooting and killing his wife, Ruby, 26, the mother of seven children, in the back yard of a neighbor's home last April 4 following an argument.

Weightman filed the murder information against Banks.

'Killed My Wife'

Assistant County Detective Paul Bazilwich, of Monessen, testified that when he arrived on the scene after the slaying he found Banks lying on a floor and moaning between sobs:

"I killed my wife."

The case is being prosecuted by Edward Doran and Earl Keim, Westmoreland County assistant district attorneys.

In his opening statement yesterday, Doran asked the jury to return one of four verdicts: first degree murder, second degree murder, voluntary manslaughter or acquittal.

The state is attempting to prove that Banks killed his wife with a blast from a 12 gauge shotgun at point-blank range.

Judge John M. O'Connell is presiding.

Negro Teachers May Get Jobs In Levittown

LEVITTOWN, Pa. (UP)- Two Negro teachers may be assigned to a new integrated elementary school in Levittown, scene of numerous mass demonstrations recently protesting a Negro family moving into the previously all-white community.

Benjamin F. Stockett, Jr., president of the school board of Bristol Township, which includes Levittown, said yesterday that two Negro teachers had been hired but that no definite assignments have been made.

The new James Buchanan Elementary School will be available for pupils from the Dogwood Hollow section of Levittown and from nearby Bloomdale Gardens, an integrated community.

William E. Myers, his wife and three children were the first Negro family to move into Levittown. They live in the Dogwood Hollow section and formerly made their home in Bloomdale.

He Tried His Best to Succeed

TAIPEI, Formosa (UP). — Wu Chia-ying of Pingtun in southern Formosa considered himself a failure today because he was still alive.

Police said the 32-year-old government employe in this order:

Took a heavy dose of sleeping pills. . .

Swallowed a box of sulphur match stick heads. . .

Tried to hang himself, but the rope broke. . .

Finally jumped out a third floor window.

He suffered two broken legs and was recovering at a hospital.

Wu gave no reason for his actions.

Gray Felt Hat May Be Clue in Trunk Murder

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A size 7⅜ gray felt hat turned up today as a possible clue in the slaying of Wheeling Gambler Nick Miller.

Allegheny County detectives who have admitted they are stumped in their investigation of the gang-land style killing, said the hat was in the Lincoln hardtop convertible in which Miller's decomposed body was found Aug. 22.

Authorities indicated they believed the hat belonged to someone other than Miller, possibly the slayer, because the size was too large for the victim, whose hat size was understood to be a mere 7. They described the hat as medium gray with a large brim and black band. It was a Caxton make with the label of a Detroit store—Louis The Hatter, 135 Cadillac Ave.

Inside the leather sweat band was a marking of "M" or "W" in crayon. When found, the topper was in a cellophane bag.

Allegheny County Detectives Joseph Start and Steve Pucker were in Wheeling, W. Va., today checking out friends and acquaintances of Miller, who operated the cafe there as an apparent base for his gambling operations. The detectives said they would talk to anyone who could give them a clue, including Miller's widow.

Leader Rejects Request of GOP

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader has turned down a request to meet with Republican legislative leaders to hear their opposition to a Welfare Department order for eviction of employes living in homes on state mental hospital grounds.

Leader, in a letter to Senate majority Leader Rowland B. Mahany, said he was "unable" to meet with the Republicans today because of other commitments.

However, the governor left the door open for a future conference with a suggestion that Mahany arrange a meeting with Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro.

"I am confident that Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro would be happy to sit down with you at any time mutually convenient and discuss any problems involving his department," Leader said.

Monessen Youth Tells All About His First Week in the Service

(Alfred P. Klimcke, of Monessen, a recent Penn State University graduate, has started a six-months training program under the Reserve Forces Act, which calls for two years of Army service, of which six months is spent on active duty and the remainder with a reserve unit meeting once weekly. Klimcke is writing a series of letters relating some of the experiences which recruits under this program undergo. The following is the first.)

By ALFRED P. KLIMCKE

FORT KNOX, Ky. — (Special to The Daily Independent) — "By direction of the President and with your consent, you are ordered for a tour of active duty for training for six months effective 17 August 1957 and on that date you will proceed from your home so as to arrive at Fort Knox Ky. between 0800 and 1630 hours 18 August, 1957.

That's how it all began.

Our first official order, "straighten out that line and shuddup," was issued by an Army sergeant at the Pennsylvania Railroad terminal in Pittsburgh prior to boarding trains for our training station, Fort Knox.

Following an overnight trip, which was spent for the most part in "getting acquainted", we arrived at our destination.

At Fort Knox, where I saw no piles of gold, just two-story frame buildings, we were officially welcomed into a reception center, which would be our homes for approximately three days, during which time the following things were accomplished:

We were given 10 classification tests.

We were given a physical exam and various immunizations.

We received our basic allotment of military clothing, records brought up to date, interviewed and classified and received a partial $20 pay.

Those first three days were hectic ones, filled with much indoctrination and with much waiting in line.

The first day at Fort Knox was spent in picking up bedding and other important features of making a new life. Lights in the barracks were out at 10 p. m.

However, the next morning left no doubt about Army life. We were Doctors at St. Joseph Hospital said Mrs. Dorothy Ellison, 45, is in fair condition but needs transfusions of the rare blood.

Mrs. Ellison was operated on in a Chicago hospital 14 years ago. Complaining of a pain in her abdomen, she went to her doctor recently. An X-ray disclosed surgical forceps had been left in her abdomen in the earlier operation.

An operation to remove the forceps was subsequently performed.

Winds Force Delay In Nuclear Testing

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—Strong northeast winds have forced the Atomic Energy Commission to postpone for 24 hours the firing of a delicate nuclear device called "Smoky."

The AEC Tuesday night rescheduled the test for 8 a.m. e.d.t. Thursday. Scientists said winds would have sent fallout over populated areas around Caliente, Nev. The blast, to be triggered from a 700-foot tower, will unleash a force equal to more than 20,000 tons of TNT.

Hoffa — Beck

LOTS TO TALK ABOUT? — Dave Beck head of the Teamsters union, gets together with his heir apparent, James Hoffa, in Los Angeles. They met before the union's executive board opened its meeting.

AFL-CIO Is Opposed To Hoffa's Election

WASHINGTON (UP) — By hitting corruption charges against James R. Hoffa the AFL-CIO has given a tip-off that it opposes him as president of the giant Teamsters Union, informed labor sources said today.

Elevation of Hoffa now from vice president to president of the Teamsters would almost insure the ouster of the union from the AFL-CIO, the sources said.

The AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee sent the charges against Hoffa, Teamster President Dave Beck and Vice Presidents Frank Brewster and Sidney Brennan to the Teamsters Union. The charges will be aired before the committee late next week at a meeting here.

While not made public, the AFL CIO indicated the charges were based primarily on the Senate Rackets Committee investigation which issued a 48-point accusation against Hoffa. The senators accused Hoffa of rising to power in the 1,400,000 member Teamster with the aid of racketeers, loaning union money to his friends and borrowing money from officials of companies where the teamsters have contracts.

Beck and Brewster were accused May 6 of using their posts for personal profit. Brennan has been convicted of taking a bribe from an employer.

Hoffa brushed aside the new charges at the Teamsters Executive Board meeting in Los Angeles. He said he would continue to seek the presidency at the Teamsters convention Sept. 9 in Miami Beach, Fla.

Although Hoffa is the odds-on-favorite to win, it is possible that the AFL-CIO hearings Sept. 5 may have some affect on the outcome of the election.

Steel Union Has Alternate Plans For Jobless Pay

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The United Steelworkers union, whose supplemental unemployment benefits program goes into effect Sept. 1, said today it has worked out alternate schemes for paying benefits in states where the SUB program is blocked by legal restrictions.

The alternate arrangements cover some 190,000 USW members in Ohio, Indiana, North Carolina and Virginia.

The union's jobless pay program was written into its current three-year contracts with producers in basic steel, iron ore mining, aluminum and about 200 fabricating companies last summer. The program, in which trust funds have been building up since last August, provides roughly for 65 per cent of a laid-off workers' wages for a 52-week period.

The payments are legal in all states except the four where it was ruled that by accepting such benefits, paid for by employers, workers would jeopardize their eligiblity for state unemployment compensation.

In Ohio, where 114,000 USW members are affected, the USW and companies have agreed to make court tests of the legality of the state's taboo against SUB and will begin payments on schedule. The union said it is felt that the Ohio Unemployment Compensation Administrators' ruling against SUB cannot stand up under Ohio law.

In Indiana and Virginia, the method of paying SUB will go to a special arbitration board. Hearings will begin in Washington Aug. 29. The outcome affects about 69,000 in Indiana.

Peruvian Submarine Freed from Reef

OLD SAYBROOK, Conn. (UP)—A Peruvian submarine with 57 men aboard was pulled free from a reef in Long Island Sound today 16 hours after running aground. No one was injured.

A Navy tug, a civilian tug and two Navy submarine boats hauled the attack submarine Iquique off a 12-mile reef about 2½ miles off shore where it ran aground Tuesday during a trial run.

Lawler Quits Highways Post for 'Pike Job

HARRISBURG (UP)—Dr. Merritt A. Williamson today was reported prepared to step down within six or eight weeks as acting head of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission in the wake of the resignation of Joseph J. Lawler as state highways secretary.

Gov. George M. Leader announced Tuesday that Lawler, 55, would resign his cabinet post before Oct. 1 and would be named to an interim appointment on the Turnpike Commission.

Lawler would replace suspended Commissioner James F. Torrance, Export Republican, whose term expired June 4.

Williamson, dean of the College of Engineering at Pennsylvania State University, first had a "no comment" when questioned concerning reports he would resign the $13,000 a year turnpike post. He later said "a decision will be made within six or eight weeks."

Williamson, 41, a Republican, was named to the commission last January to fill the vacancy created by the death of David E. Watson, Philadelphia. At the time, Williamson said he felt the job was of a temporary nature.

Leader's announcement that Lawler would resign his $15,000 a year cabinet post for a $13,000 job on the Turnpike Commission marked another twist in the controversial history of the governing body of the superhighway.

Former Commission Chairman Thomas J. Evans, Coaldale, and Torrance were convicted of conspiracy and misconduct in office in connection with an alleged multi-million dollar swindle of turnpike funds. Both men have appealed. Suspended Commission Chairman G. Franklin McSorley, Pittsburgh, is under indictment on a charge of misconduct in office involving the use of a chauffeur by Evans and faces trial Sept. 23.

Lawler has served on the commission by virtue of his highways office since his appointment as head of the state's road system when Gov. Leader formed his cabinet in January, 1955. In addition to Williamson, he would join former state Sen. John F. Byrne, Philadelphia, a Democrat, on the commission.

awakened with a voice over the barracks public address system, "Get up! Get out of those beds! Hit the deck!" And all this at 3 a. m.

Following breakfast and after much more waiting in one line or another, we were marched back to the lecture room where we took a series of classification tests which lasted from 6 a. m. until noon.

The afternoon was spent in acquiring immunization treatment. All in a matter of a few minutes we were given two shots in the upper arm, both in virtually the same spot, had a blood smear drawn from a finger and a small vial of blood drawn from the right forearm.

The next few days were filled with the operations which had been outlined on our first day, with much waiting between them. The most arduous was the long haul through the supply room to fit and receive our clothing. Considering the speed of the process, the fits were amazingly good!

Finally, on Wednesday, at 3 p. m. we lifted our duffle bags to our shoulders and marched off to our training units. This march is what has come to be known as a small-scale "death march," although we had to carry our duffle bags only about six blocks, at which point they were loaded on trucks.

The bags weighed approximately 80 pounds each and many of the men had fallen out of line before going three blocks. After we loaded the bags, the three-mile march to our company area was a lark, in spite of the 90-degree heat.

Our first few days in our training unit were mainly a continuation of the processing earlier in the week. Much to our relief, wake-up is now set at around 5 a. m.

Our firts morning here included a lecture on physical training, lectures on military tradition and courtesy and issuing of field equipment.

All week we have been constantly on the go from wakeup until "lights out" at 9:30 p. m. Much time is spent in cleaning of equipment, polishing of brass and marking of clothing.

While standing in line at the mess hall we must stand at parade rest, looking neither up, down, left or right. Just at the mess hall door is a parallel bar upon which each soldier must do as many chin-ups as he can, with the number increasing each day. There is no talking in the mess hall. "Eat and get out." is the order of the day.

Saturday at 3 p. m., just about one full week after I left Monessen, we were at last "off duty." Sunday is always an off duty day, except for those who have "goofed" or are assigned extra duty.

The Army runs on a tight schedule. So far, our experiences have served mainly to fit us into that schedule. Nobody particularly likes it. But we feel it is something which must be done and are determined to get the most out of it.

In eight weeks, they tell us we will be soldiers. We will find out come Monday.

Four teachers were hired as temporary professional employes as recommended by Dr. Pallone. They were:

Harrietta McCraw of Monessen, elementary at $3,400; Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Preselac of California, elementary, $3,200; Peter Zoretich of Bentleyville (a Monessen High graduate), secondary, $3,400; and Mrs. Patricia Ann Gorman, McClellandtown, secondary, $3,400.

The Board also accepted the resignation of two teachers: Mrs. Ellen Harrison Utterback and Silvio Dodaro.

Miss Dorothy Whitehouse was granted a saobatical leave for one semester for medical reasons. She will receive one-half of her regular salary less the necessary deductions provided the amount does not exceed $1,500 for the half term.

Five Applications

The applications of five teachers seeking positions were received from the following and filed: Kenneth Clark, Belle Vernon; Jack Edward Bischof, Johnstown; John Pringle, Merrittstown; Michael Panich, and John Novakovich, Monessen.

The directors agreed unanimously to change the retirement age for all school personnel from 62 to 65. This was in compliance with new state legislation adopted in connection with the Social Security program for school employes.

Also in conformity with new state legislation, the sick and accident leave was increased from 5 to 10 days for school employes.

Two appearances of the Monessen High School band were approved; at the Midget Football League opening on Sept. 10 and at the Festival of Bands at Bellmar on Oct. 5.

The Peoples Natural Gas Co. was granted a right of way to erect a small building at the Ben Franklin school to service the new gas furnaces there.

Present at the meeting were directors John Lancas, John Kossar, Romeo Furio, Nick Cullen, Alex Kachmarik and Dr. Joseph Dudas.

Allen — Madden — Scott

THEY BLOC-KED DELAY — A bipartisan bloc smashed a Southern delaying action on a civil rights compromise bill. Six Democrats and four Republicans of the House rules committee ordered the bill sent to the House for action. Key figures in the move are Rep. Leo Allen (R), Ill., Rep. Ray Madden, Indiana Democrat and Rep. Hugh Scott, (R) Pa.

Southern Senators in Last Ditch Stand

WASHINGTON (UP)—Southern senators fighting a losing last stand against the civil rights bill stood all but alone today in the path of congressional adjournment.

House - Senate conferees called meetings to compromise on the foreign aid money bill and legislation aimed at protecting FBI files. Fast action was expected.

The House itself was ready to go home on short notice. But the southerners were expected to drag out the debate over civil rights for two or three more days—possibly into next week.

At the same time, this was the status of other major legislation:

Immigration: The House called up its so-called hardship immigration bill for action. It would open American shores to thousands of additional immigrants. The Senate has passed a similar bill.

Postal: The administration's postal rate boost bill that would bring in an extra half-billion a year in revenue appeared firmly shelved in the Senate Post Office Committee. The House has passed it.

Crowds filled the galleries intermittently as the 85th Congress struggled through the final days of the session.

Thousands of spectators gathered to watch the House pass the new compromise civil rights bill Tuesday and rush it to the Senate. But only a scattering of onlookers watched the Senate debate it Tuesday night until nearly midnight.

Early in the evening an ailing old man was helped to the Senate floor by two aides. Sen. Matthew M. Neely (D-W. Va.) left a hospital bed to vote for the federal pay boost bills.

Southern Democratic Senators gave no sign so far that their fight against the civil rights bill would be turned into a filibuster. They appeared content to settle for a few days of speeches and delaying-tactics.

Other congressional news:

Women: The women's equal rights constitutional amendment—an old Senate perennial—bloomed again briefly in the Senate. The Judiciary Committee voted it out. But the Senate clearly planned to let it wither.

Traffic Accident Hurts Are Fatal

MT. PLEASANT, Pa. (UP) — Mrs. Evelyn Thomas, 21, of Indian Head, Fayette County, died in Frick Memorial Hospital today of a head injury suffered in a highway accident last Friday.

State police said her car struck the rear of a tractor-trailer on the Pennsylvania Turnpike two miles west of the Donegal Interchange.

Steel Millhand To Testify Before Senate Probers

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Labor Rackets Committee will question a steel millhand who has charged there was fraud in this year's re-election of David J. McDonald as president of the United Steelworkers Union.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said the witness, George Crosby of Pittsburgh, Pa., will testify in closed hearing Friday.

Crosby's statement resulted in the filing of a criminal libel charge by union zone committeeman Harry Llewellyn. Crosby is free on $1,500 bond pending a hearing.

The committee recently requested the 2,500 locals of the union to impound the ballots by which McDonald was re-elected. The defeated candidate, Donald C. Rarick, told the committee in closed session several months ago that McDonald used union funds in his re-election campaign.

Crosby, a former worker at the Hazelwood plant of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., said in a notarized statement sent the committee earlier that he was paid $10 to stuff the ballot box with 35 ballots marked for McDonald. He said he was paid the money by Llewellyn, who is a committeeman for USW Local 1843 at the Hazelwood plant.

Wheeling in Need of Help

WHEELING, W. Va. (UP)—Wheeling City Manager Robert Plummer said Tuesday that the city can use a "Billy Graham" to "change a very large degree of public opinion and sentiment and give the police the support they deserve."

The statement came following a closed door conference with Wheeling Police Chief William Thomas. Among items they discussed was an editorial appearing Tuesday on the front page of the Wheeling Intelligencer and asking questions about alleged lack of law enforcement here.

Plummer told newsmen he believed Thomas has made commendable progress since taking over last October.

The city manager also revealed that the talks concerned the recent death of gambler Nick Miller and "law enforcement in general".

Thomas said his men "made several raids" on the Pirate Cafe operated by Miller, but when they got inside "we found them playing bridge."

Miller's decomposed body was found last Thursday in the back of his car in a Pittsburgh suburb, the victim of an apparent underworld slaying.

Peters Township Club Is Closed By Publicity

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UP)—Club 19, a gambling rendezvous in nearby Peters Township, was closed today—at least temporarily—by the spotlight of publicity.

The club, which had operated as the Maple Athletic Club until two years ago, reopened three weeks ago and took over business that formerly went to Club 30 near Chester, W. Va.

Newspaper publicity, plus state police surveillance, brought an end to the gambling venture Tuesday night. Equipment was loaded into a truck and hauled away.

State Police Capt. Frank L. Garnow, in charge of the Washington detachment, said the club had been under surveillance since it reopened.

He said state police had received no official complaints about gambling at the club. He said troopers had received "rumors" and tips from confidential sources that gambling was going on in the club, but the club closed before any direct evidence could be obtained.

"We'll continue to keep it under surveillance," Garnow said.

Garnow said information he received indicated the club was operated by Chester Stupak, Pittsburgh, who has been arrested three times on gambling charges in Pittsburgh but has never been convicted.

Chinese Scholar to Speak at BIE Day

A Chinese scholar and former diplomat will be the main speaker at the fourth annual Business-Industry Education Day in Monessen on Oct. 17.

T. W. Kwok, now associated with the securities firm of C. S. McKee & Son in Pittsburgh, will address the opening session of the Chamber of Commerce-sponsored BIE Day.

Henry Furio, chairman of the Chamber's Education Committee, said that Kwok will speak to the city's teachers at the High School auditorium at the start of the day's activities. After his address, the teachers will leave for a tour of various businesses and industries in the city and district.

Kwok is a noted speaker. He formerly served as lecturer on constitutional history and international law at the China National University in Shanghai. He also served as Dean of the College.

For more than 25 years, Kwok was in the service of the Chinese government in the ministries of finance, economic affairs and foreign affirs. In the latter assignment, he was the Chinese minister to Brazil.

His education includes studies at St. John's University in Shanghai, University of Washington, University of Michigan, Harvard University and Cambridge University in England.

His speech topic will be "The Family System in China."

Mediators in Trolley Talks

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Federal and state mediators joined in "exploratory" talks with both sides today in an effort to ward off the threat of a citywide transit strike this week end.

Union leaders of Pittsburgh Railways Company's 2,200 trolley and bus operators have been voted authorization to call a strike at Saturday midnight if agreement is not reached on a new contract.

Federal Mediator G. Harry Young briefed Mayor David L. Lawrence for about an hour Tuesday on the status of the deadlocked contract talks.

Shortly before the briefing session, the trolley - bus union assured the public it would be given 24-hour notice of a walkout.

Belle Vernon Man Put on Probation

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP)—Raymond Hewitt, Belle Vernon, pleaded guilty before Judge Richard D. Laird today to a charge of resisting arrest and was placed on two years probation.

Police Chief M. E. Anthony of North Belle Vernon said Hewitt assaulted him when he sought to place the defendant under arrest.

Many Enjoy Chamber Corn Roast at Park

Over 100 members of the Monessen Chamber of Commerce and their guests enjoyed the annual corn roast at the City Park last night.

Perfect weather greeted the picnickers, and committees headed by William Read as general chairman provided a delectable feast. Service was buffet style.

Most of the guests enjoyed informal fellowship before and after the supper, but enough energy was mustered to put on a one-sided, one-inning softball game afterwards.

With Judge David H. Weiss on the pitchers' mound for one team and Jay Stark for the other, the Stark team won by a score of 15-0, according to an official statement from the Chamber office.

A combination of darkness and weariness on the part of the Stark batters, who hit Judge Weiss' unjudicial pitches at will forced the game to be called.

Legion Installation Plans Are Discussed

Plans were made for installation of officers on Sept. 24 when Thomas McKee Post 28, American Legion met last night in the Post Home. Commander Peter T. Stieska was in charge.

Verification of the installation date must be made by the 31st District Commander and then further plans will be announced.

A corn roast was planned for Sept. 8 at 2 p. m. at the Post Home. Charles McCauley and William Carlson are co-chairmen of the affair.

Delegates who attended the state convention in Harrisburg gave reports. They were Stieska, George Chesmar, Jack Beck, Gilfert Mihalich and Angelo Giannini.

The men unanimously agreed to sponsor the essay contest again this year in Monessen High School. The awards will be the same as last year, $50 bond and gold medal, first prize; $25 bond and silver medal, second prize and a bronze medal, third prize. Jack Beck will be essay chairman.

Announcement was made of the death of Past Department Commander Lawrence Trainer of Duquesne, who served during the 1948-49 year.

$10,000 Taken In Steubenville

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (UP)—Officials of the Hub department store, the city's largest, said today about $10,000 was taken by five robbers who held up the store Tuesday morning.

The money was taken from two safes which were broken open by the gang.

The robbers, believed members of an out-of-town gang, entered the store as employes were reporting for work. They remained in the store about 65 minutes, forcing arriving employes at gunpoint into an information room in the rear.

The gang escaped in a stolen automobile bearing stolen Ohio license plates.

Dulles Hasn't Heard His Song

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said Tuesday he still hasn't heard the new song, "I Made A Fool Of Myself Over John Foster Dulles."

The State Department received a transcription of the song Monday.

Seek Compromise To Safeguard Files of FBI

WASHINGTON (UP)—A House-Senate committee today sought a compromise bill to safeguard the secrecy of the FBI's confidential files.

Passage of some legislation to spell out a limitation as to how much FBI information of a defendant is entitled to was virtually assured in the closing days of the session. Both the House and Senate have approved bills to modify the effect of a Supreme Court decision in the Jencks case.

The question the House-Senate Conference Committee will decide is a matter of degree.

The House bill passed Tuesday is considerably tougher than the Senate version. The administration and the FBI have backed the House bill.

Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) of the House Judiciary Committee said he was "quite sure" that the House-Senate conferees would agree to the Senate version—or a modification of it. The House rejected an attempt by Celler to substitute a bill almost identical to the Senate's.

Better Instincts

THE BETTER instincts of the more responsible leaders of Congress seem to be coming to the top on the issue of foreign aid.

Following a private meeting between President Eisenhower and Sen. Lyndon Johnson, the influential Democratic leader in the Senate, that body's Appropriations Committee voted 14-7 to restore more than $500 million of the House cuts in foreign aid appropriations. Perhaps by the time this comment is printed, the full Senate will have endorsed this recommendation. We certainly hope so.

This would throw the matter into conference with the House, which would probably result in a compromise at a figure somewhat lower than that set by the Senate committee. So the foreign aid program, an essential feature of our foreign policy, cannot yet be regarded as being saved from the depradations of the economizers in the House.

What has happened, we suspect, is that the public reaction to the House cuts has not been favorable. For all their concern about government spending and high taxes, the American people still give priority to the nation's constructive efforts to build a safe and peaceful world. And the people unquestionably still have a great deal of confidence in President Eisenhower's judgment as to what is needed to make these efforts effective.

This would be a poor time indeed for America to relax. Nothing would better serve the desires of the Communist conspirators.

Senator Johnson is to be complimented for putting partisanship aside and counselling with the President from the standpoint of the nation's best interests. This is what we ought to expect from our statesmen at all times, but we do not get it often enough.

Foolish Project

WE'RE not surprised that Capt. Alan Villiers, skipper of the Mayflower II, has gone to England soured on the whole enterprise, which he intimates has become something different from the original concept as a goodwill gesture from our mother country to the United States.

Some readers may recall that we expressed reservations about the Mayflower stunt at its inception. We couldn't grasp — and still can't — what the promoters were trying to prove. And whatever it is has now given the eloquent Captain Villiers what he says is a "bellyful".

The affair reminded us of a not dissimilar project that was carried out in this vicinity during the depression years. We can't remember what that was supposed to prove, either, and it doesn't matter now.

But it involved a number of men camping for weeks on the banks of the Youghiogeny at West Newton while they built some rafts to float down to the Ohio.

When we visited the project site, we had the distinct impression that there are better ways to commemorate important historical events than to try to reproduce them. There are also better ways for grown men to spend their time and other people's money.

Rostraver's Fair

A VISIT to the annual Rostraver Twp. Fair is always a rewarding experience for people throughout this area.

Although the Rostraver Fair is small as fairs go, much of its interest derives from the fact that it is a neighborhood enterprise. This gives it an authenticity that is often missing from fairs which are promoted on a more elaborate scale.

One of the real joys of living in the Monongahela Valley is its proximity to a thriving agricultural area, of which Rostraver Twp. is the center.

At the Fair, of which this year's is the 15th edition, one sees tangible evidence of the skill and productivity of the farmers of Rostraver and their families. We recommend that our readers pay it a visit if they haven't already done so.

The Fair is being held this year at the new Junior High School, a setting which offers better facilities than the Fair has previously enjoyed. The exhibits are open through tomorrow evening.

Walter Reuther's proposal that the auto companies reduce prices $100 per car, in return for which he might modify his wage demands next year, sounds like the old wheezer: "Heads I win, tails you lose."

Scientists are figuring that, when the rocket age comes in, we should be able to go to Mars and back in about 720 days. Heck, we're still trying to get to Yellowstone Park!

Merry-Go-Round—

Members of Teamsters Rap Hoffa

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Despite all the headlines and the sure-shot speculations that Jimmy Hoffa will be next head of the Teamsters, inside fact is that AFL-CIO President George Meany has received thousands of letters from individual Teamsters and locals pledging that they will bolt Hoffa if he tries to take them out of the AFL-CIO.

Mr. Pearson

Actually Meany thought he had a promise from honest John English, the Teamster Treasurer, to start cleaning house sometime ago. But English was slow. Result: Hoffa's surprise acquittal bounced up against English and for Hoffa.

Meanwhile another honest Teamster, Congressman Jack Shelly, Democrat of San Francisco, had been too modest about letting his candidacy become known.

Shelly fought Dave Beck's goons 20 years ago at Long Beach and nearly lost his life. He opposed using baseball bats and cargo hooks to keep longshoremen from going on the docks. So Teamster goons used those same weapons on him. They bashed in his chest and nearly put out one eye.

Shelly is now serving in Congress, has a fine record, suffered from a heart attack, but still considers himself as physically fit as Eisenhower or Lyndon Johnson. He is willing to run, but like Eisenhower, wants to be drafted. In his case, however, the Teamster machine is all on Hoffa's side, whereas in Eisenhower's case, the GOP machine was on Ike's side.

Result: Despite grassroots sentiment against Hoffa, it will be a miracle if Shelly is drafted.

Inspecting the Banks

An unusual thing happened the other day among the banks of the 48 states, which don't usually agree unanimously. They all telegraphed Eisenhower, recommending the same man for the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation which guarantees safe deposits to the American public. This was the first time in 55 years there has been complete unanimity among the association of state banks.

The man they recommend was William A. Burkett, superintendent of banks for California.

Ignoring this unanimity, Eisenhower apponted ex-Congressman Jesse Wolcott of Michigan to this key post.

Wolcott is a fine, honest old gentleman who retired from Congress after serving on the House Banking and Currency Committee. But his appointment runs counter to the policy Ike announced at the Williamsburg Governors' Conference to give the states more participation in federal government.

For the FDIC is now dominated by the national banks, rather than the state banks. And what most people — perhaps including Eisenhower — don't realize is that national banks are not subject to FDIC inspection, only state banks. Furthermore, there are 9,000 state banks as against only 4,500 national banks.

Bank Scandals

It's in the state banks where the big scandals have been occurring — in some cases right under the nose of the FDIC. The FDIC was involved when Orville Hodge stole $1,200,000 in Illinois. And one reason Burkett got such enthusiastic backing from his banking officials was because he cleaned up a serious little-publicized banking scandal in California.

There, Gus Johnson, longtime treasurer of California, a Republican, was caught owing the banks $101,000. These were the same banks in which he placed millions of dollars of state funds, interest-free. Whenever certain banks wanted some state money to help their balance they could call up Gus Johnson and he would oblige with interest-free deposits.

Here is what Banking Superintendent Burkett found that the banks did in return:

"The Central Bank of Oakland," he found, "wrote off $68,999 of a loan to Johnson as a loss. The directors believed the loan should not have been made. . . . The bank was a depository for millions of dollars of state funds at the time it made loans to Johnson.

"The American Trust Co. loaned Johnson $13,700 at favorable interest rates over a 10-year period." Burkett also reported, "Finally writing off $3,000 to losses, despite the fact that he had $4,363 on deposit in his commercial account."

Tasmania, Australia's island state, has the look of the English countryside. A land made prosperous by rich soil and abundant power, the island got off to a good start with sheep grazing. This business still contributes substantially to state income; but today more Tasmanians work in factories than on the land.

Forgettin' Men of 1957

From Washington—

Good News from Pentagon

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Neil H. McElroy, the new Secretary of Defense who came out of his first Senate hearings and confirmation unscathed — he even knew the full name of his predecessor and could pronounce it — will soon find it easier to get bad publicity than good.

Mr. Drummond

When the Pentagon pulls a blooper, like buying too many hamburgers or too many tenpenny nails and shipping them to the wrong part of the world, the critical headlines pour down in box-car size. But when the military does something right, the politicians and the reporters often turn their attention elsewhere, are unimpressed. They just take it for granted — and nothing is said.

In the interest of giving credit where credit is due, I should like to report that in one aspect of unification the Department of Defense is making significant headway. It is achieving a new level of effciency and is practsng solid economy, saving your money and mine.

'Single Manager'

I refer to the expanding development of what is now known in the Pentagon as the "Single Manager System" in which the Secretary of one military department serves as the single manager for supply of common-use items for all the four services, Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines. He is more than a single purchasing agent. He manages all functions of wholesale supply. He decides how much is to be bought in order to keep down expensive inventory and wastage. He buys it, finances it, and distributes it. He controls its storage and shipment to using installations.

A vast integration of procurement has already been achieved. More is in the making.

The Navy buys all medical supplies and equipment and all petroleum for all the services, is also the single manager for ocean transportation.

The Air Force is the single manager for airlift services.

The Army handles all subsistence, clothing and textile purchasing, consolidating thousands of items and saving accordingly. It is in charge of all traffic by rail, highway, air, inland waterways and coastwise and inter-coastal carriers.

Huge Operations

These are massive operations. In a typical year, for example, the Army will handle about 3,000,000 shipments at a cost of more than $500,000,000. In fiscal 1956 more than 4,500,000 passengers were transported by the Army at a cost of $100,000,000.

A good illustration of the extent to which military supply is being integrated is the fact that 78 per cent of the Army's procurement goes to the other services and 51 per cent of its food purchasing is for the other branches.

The Pentagon's Single Manager Service leads continuously to reducing the number of slightly varying common-use items. In the clothing field, for example, there are plans to reduce the number of shoe lasts from 461 to 113 and in traffic management the number of field offices is being cut 50 per cent.

In the judgment of Frank H. Higgins, Assistant Secretary of the Army for logistics, a man who has spent nearly 40 years in successful private industry and has been in the Pentagon for the past three, the Army's Single Manager Service is working well.

May Extend Plan

"All indications," he says, "are that it would work well in wartime. It would not have been adopted if it were not believed that it would work in wartime as well as in peacetime. At present the concept is limited to the continental United States; however, by the middle of next year studies on its extension overseas will be completed."

Recently I pointed out that by specific legislative action Congress was preventing the Army from closing two unneeded hospitals in Arkansas and Massachusetts which were costing an unnecessary $1,000,000 a year. It has done so for the past three years.

But on June 28 Senator Saltonstall — and a few days later Senator Kennedy — withdrew their previous objection to this economy, and against local pressure supported the closing of Murphy General Hospital. The Army is now free to close it down, and has announced that it will do so in January. But it still can't close down the unneeded Army-Navy Hospital in Arkansas.

Foreign Students Have 'Little U.N.' in N.Y.

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP)—This town has a "little U.N." which attracts few tourists, although it is located right across the street from Grant's Tomb and only a block from Riverside Church.

But students around the globe know of it—it is home for many of them when they come to New York to study.

Gay Pauley

"We're sort of a miniature United Nations; but we operate on the person-to-person level," said Mrs. Mary Y. Munford, resident adviser at International House.

The house is a residence and social center for American and foreign students, many of them doing graduate work. In the next few weeks, as the city's colleges and universities enroll for fall terms, it will fill up with 525 students from 65 nations, ranging from Norway to Japan, from Chile to Lebanon.

Its "alumni" include Burl Ives, Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, developer of the atomic submarine; Helen Kim, president of the largest college for women in Korea; Frederick Boland, Ireland's ambassador to the U.N., and opera singer Mattawilda Dobbs.

Two Similar Houses

International House here is one of three such residences in the United States—the other two, at the University of Chicago and the University of California, Berkeley.

It was founded in 1924 but the idea was born many years earlier when a student YMCA secretary named Harry Edmonds said "Good morning" to a Chinese student on the Columbia University campus.

"Do you know," said the student, "you are the first person who has talked to me in the three weeks I have been in New York."

Edmonds decided there should be a way for foreign students to get acquainted with their counterparts in America—and learn about our way of life. He began with Sunday night suppers at his home, inviting various nationalities. Eventually, his work caught the eye of John D. Rockefeller Jr., who donated a chunk of land on Riverside Drive and three million dollars to build and equip the house.

The residence today has much in common with any other campus residence—except for the fact that it houses both sexes, in opposite wings.

And it has more student arguments, because so many differing political beliefs are represented.

"I was worried during the Arab-Israeli flare-up," said Mrs. Munford. "But heated as discussions often get, we've never had an unpleasant incident."

Sheltered Hungarian Refugees

After the Hungarian revolts last October, the house was home for a while to 110 Hungarian students —all of whom now are scholarship students on various campuses around the country.

"One night at a student sing, the Hungarians were doing a lot of their own folk songs," she said. "Then one of them started the Battle Hymn of the Republic. . . everybody joined in. There wasn't a dry eye in the place."

The resident adviser, a widow and mother of three grown sons, is sort of a mother-confessor to her one-world brood although she won't abide use of the term, "house mother." But the students come to her with problems ranging from dating to slumping grades to manners in a foreign land. "And money," she said. "Some are here on a shoestring, foreign exchange rates being what they are."

Most of the students work full or part-time. One Korean girl, who was used to having servants back home, cooked this summer for a wealthy, but obviously understanding New York woman.

"I am the cook," the girl wrote Mrs. Munford. "But since I do not know how. I have no problems."

The Lighter Side—

Career of 40 Years in The Dance Business

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—Lou Brecker, who is celebrating the 40th anniversary in his career of inducing people to play footsy with a slick maple floor, estimates that around 20 million persons have danced through his life from ragtime to cha-cha.

In 40 years as a dance - palace proprietor, he's seen some changes made. The hostess and the dime-a-dance have passed out of his place. In the early days, the average age of the dancers was about 25. Now, it's 35 or more. And there are plenty of elderly people who are steady customers.

Now he has a family clientele. "Sixty per cent of our crowd come in couples," he says. "In past years, when he had hostesses, 10 per cent couples was a big percentage."

Started In Philadelphia

It was August, 1917, when Brecker opened his place at 12th and Chestnut in Philadelphia. Two years later, when he moved here and opened his famous Roseland Ballroom for a long run at 51st and Broadway, the first floor of the building was occupied by Healy's carriage factory.

"I guess you can say we moved in at the end of the carriage era and carried right on into the beginning of the jet era," Brecker said as he sat at a table in his new block-big, 4-million - dollar building and watched more than 1,000 dancers swirling—a remarkable crowd considering that it was in the middle of a weekday summer afternoon.

The old Roseland Ballroom — the place where dance marathons began in 1924, where Roxy staged a dance wedding in the late 1920's, where, at a funeral for prohibition, people marched around a coffin and tossed their flasks in—is being torn down.

Brecker's sumptuous new place, which began business last December, is called Roseland Dance City. It has a 30,000-square - foot dance floor, three television lounges, a $350,000 yearly budget for name bands.

Rock 'n' roll is banned. No admittance without a necktie. If you need one, you can buy it at the box office for 35 cents, and you can get a refund when you leave. No Bermuda shorts. And shoes must be worn while dancing. (Once, an actress took her shoes off to dance and was made to put them back on.)

Carry Own Shoes

You're probably familiar with the bowling enthusiast who carries his own ball with him to the alleys. But did you know that dance enthusiasts carry their dancing shoes with them? Yep, and leave their regular shoes in the check-room while dancing.

Brecker goes for name bands now. He paid Guy Lombardo $10,000 a week for a two-week stand. Coming up this fall he has such as Les Brown, Sammy Kaye, Richard Maltby, Ted Lewis, and Xavier Cugat.

Wallflowerism now is practiced as an art unto itself. "A good portion of our customers," Brecker said, "don't dance but just sit and listen and watch."

Gus 'Swamped' With Speaking Offers

Charleroi's Gus Brickner didn't succeed in swimming the English Channel, but apparently he's still regarded as a hero in the district. At any rate, Gus is being kept busy these days with speaking engagements. He'll talk to the Monessen Lions Club on Sept. 5. Already he's addressed several organizations in the Pittsburgh district including the big Mt. Lebanon-Dormont Rotary Club . . . Mothers of Midget League football players here have banded together to raise money for the purchase of concession stand equipment. They plan to sell silk hose as their first project . . . A "mere" 125 candidates reported for football practice at Allentown High School last week. It was the smallest turnout in years.

A hole-in-one was sunk at Nemacolin Country Club over the weekend with the honors going to Charleroi's Dr. Louis Romito, a veteran golfer . . . Speaking of golf, Ed Betus really made a clean sweep of honors at the Monongahela Valley Country Club this season. After winning practically every event held their during the summer he climaxed his efforts by trimming Monongahela's Rudy Polaski in the club championship finals . . . Those micro-midget racers will be featured at the Uniontown Speedway this Sunday along with the regular stock car races. The little cars really go along the asphalt track at the Uniontown course . . . Speaking of stock cars, the PRA, district racing group, had a banner season this year under President Ed Witzberger.

Top District Bands at Festival

Top bands from the Pittsburgh and Mon Valley areas will join with the crack University of Pitsburgh band marching band at the Festival of Bands sponsored by the Belle Vernon Lions Club on October 8 at Bellmar High Stadium, according to Vic Sylvester, of the committee planning the festival. Monessen, Charleroi, Rostraver, Bellmar, and West Newton musical organizations from this area plus West View, Baldwin and possibly Mount Lebanon from the Pittsburgh district give promise of a top-notch musical show . . . Not only did the Belle Vernon American Legion see the Buccos turn in one of their worst performances Friday night against the Redlegs but most of the members had to wait in the bus near Forbes Field for a half hour after the game when one Legionnaire got so disgusted he walked the wrong way to the bus. A search party with help from Pittsburgh Police located him near Forbes Field mumbling, "They can't be that bad, they just can't."

Penn State's Rip Engle owns two victories for every loss his teams have suffered. In fact Penn State's won-lost record in football over a 25-year period is bettered by only 14 teams in the entire nation . . . Engle's "batting average" is .633 in 13 seasons of head coaching, six at Brown U. and the other seven guiding the Nittanies . . . Former Bethlehem Joint High School cage mentor Stan Volkavich has been named head basketball coach at Dormont High, succeeding Fred W. Loeffler, who will step down to an assistant's post but remains head football and track coach . . . Volkavich graduated from California High and California State Teachers College . . . The games are the Army-Navy (Nov. 30), Oklahoma-Notre Dame (Nov. 16) and two Big Ten games to be chosen after it is established who the top teams will be this year in that conference . . . Ernie Lattanzio now playing softball for the Cro-Ams in the City League playoffs, will soon head for Waynesburg College for his second year of basketball for the Jackets.

Davis Cup 'Snub' Alters Bob Falkenburg's Life

By OSCAR FRALEY

RIO DE JANEIRO (UP)—The United States left a tennis player named Bob Falkenburg off its Davis Cup team 10 years ago and it was a decision which not only altered the course of the young man's life but in the process introduced the hot dog stand to Brazil.

Bob and his brother, Tom, were ranked among America's top stars in 1946 when Bob was snubbed by the selection committee to go "down under" and recapture the love set silverware. So Bob barnstormed Brazil, met and married one of the local belles wound up playing on the Brazilian Davis Cup team and finally went into the short order restaurant business.

Misses The States

"Of course I miss the states," explained the towering young man who still retains his boyish exhuberance. "But the business opportunities are here and I have three places which are going great guns."

Strangely enough, for a man who got his start in tennis, dark-haired Bob hasn't handled a racket in two years.

"There just isn't any competition down here," he said. "After we were married, we lived in Beverly Hills for a while but then I decided to go into business in Rio. I played on the Brazilian Davis Cup team in 1954 and 1955 but haven't played since."

Instead, he became the South American Ellsworth Vines — switching from tennis to golf.

"There are quite a few good golfers in Rio, although there are only two clubs, and I like competition," he analyzed. "So I decided to try my hand at golf."

A Tale Of Sam Snead

As usual, Bob did real well. So well that, a scratch player, he has won the Rio city championship the past two years. These days his eyes light up talking about golf the way they used to shine when he discussed tennis.

They're still mumbling in Rio, incidentally, about a visit by Sam Snead two years ago. It seems that Sam went out the first time he saw the course and broke the course record with a 64. When everybody raved about that performance, Sam shrugged, "Shucks, ah'll do better'n that tomorrow." Sizeable bets were offered which Sam snapped up. So, the next day he went out and shot a 63 and picked up the boodle or, as they say here, "muy cruzeros."

Errors Top Donora's PONY 9

Donora's PONY League team fell apart defensively in the World Series play last night and dropped a 6-3 decision to Waltham, Mass. to even the Mon Valley community's series record at 1-1. Another defeat will eliminate the Donorans.

This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the local entry took the field against Maywood, Ill., and will have to play again tonight at 8:30 o'clock if they post a win over Maywood.

In direct contrast to a sterling performance Monday night, the Washington County team committed a half-dozen errors that helped Waltham build up a six-run lead before Donora could score single runs in the last three innings.

Even in defeat, however, Donora rallied strongly late in that game and had the tieing run on first and the winning run at the plate when the game ended. Until the seventh inning, Fred LaChapelle, a tall side-arming righthander, had held Donora at bay with only five hits and two runs.

In the bottom of the seventh, however, the Waltham boy tired as he gave up a walk to pinch-hitter Stever Turkovich and a run-scoring double to Dave Kostolansky. Ray Vitale, another righthander, came in to relieve for the Massachusetts entry. Vitale fanned Ed Niziolek for the second out but gave up a single to Chuck Giuffrida and a walk to Paul Tonnecz to load the bases.

New Eagle One-Down In MVL Title Series

Charleroi took a two-game lead in the Mon Valley League playoffs and can "pick up all the marbles" with another victory at New Eagle tonight following the 13-3 clobbering of that entry at Fayette City last night.

Scoring in every inning but the seventh and last frame, the Merchants built up an insurmountable lead in a 14-hit attack on Vic Furiga and Manny Gayhart.

Larry Pappini and Nick Mahalko led the Charleroi attack guns with a homer each while Witmyer, Walt Ciepley and Billy Majeski slammed out two-baggers.

Carl Witmyer, starting hurler for the Merchants also needed help with Adam Vlanich going in relief. The only extra base blow allowed by the winners was a double off the bat of Joe Reale, although Frank Furiga's men garnered nine other hits off the Charleroi hurlers.

New Eagle trailed by only 3-1 in the bottom of the second but two Charleroi runs in the third, four in the fourth, two in the fifth and sixth while the losers could get only two in the bottom of the sixth spelled the difference.

Parker New Head Coach of Steelers

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers signed Buddy Parker Tuesday night to a five-year contract as head coach to replace ailing pilot Walt Kiesling.

Parker came to terms with Steeler President Art Rooney just two weeks after he startled the sports world by announcing at a fan banquet that he was quitting his $30,000 post as coach of the Detroit Lions.

"Walt asked to be relieved so I talked with Parker," Rooney told the United Press here in a telephone conversation from his Atlantic City, N.J., hotel room. "He was our only choice. He was Walt's choice."

No "Pressure" Involved

Rooney said the decision for Kiesling to step down after four years at the helm was "completely his own—he was never under any pressure."

Kiesling was ill most of last season with a kidney condition and spent a week in a Minneapolis hospital while his team prepared for a game on the West Coast.

Rooney sad Kiesling would be retained with the Steelers "at his present salary" in an advisory position. "That's what Parker wanted."

The Steeler president refused to discuss what salary Parker would get. But other sources indicated the pay would be substantially the same as the $30,000 a year Parker received from Detroit.

Has Winning Record

Parker brings to the Steelers a tradition of winning championships, something the hapless Pittsburgh entry has yet to attain in 25 years in the National Football League.

In his six years with Detroit, Parker led the Lions to Western Division titles three times and the NFL title twice. His record with the Lions was 50 victories, 24 losses and 2 ties.

Rooney said Parker will be the boss when he takes over.

"He'll run the team. He'll make any changes that he thinks have to be made."

Eight Win $5,797.60

DETROIT (UP) — Eight lucky ticket holders counted their blessings and winnings today after cashing in on 1957 record payoffs for both a single race and daily double. Miss Profit made it possible by winning the first race at the Detroit track Tuesday and paying $347. Lon won the second race at $43 to set up a $5,797.60 double—all for a $2 ticket.

Third Straight MVCC Crown for Mrs. F. N. Parent

Claiming the Monongahela Valley Country Club women's golf championship for the third straight year, Mrs. F. N. Parent of Charleroi topped Mrs. Rudy Polaski of Monongahela, 5 and 3 in their 18-hold title match over the MVCC course

Mrs. Parent, wife of Charleroi physician, Dr. F. N. Parent, also has won the women's honors at Nemacolin Country Club three consecutive times.

Never trailing in the match Mrs. Parent posted a medal score of 86, Mrs. Polaski finishing with a 99.

Popular MVCC personality H. D. Teal, retired Clairton educator, refereed the title match.

The loss by Mrs. Polaski made it a double setback for the Polaski family as her husband, Rudy, dropped the men's to Ed Betus in the men's title round last week.

Cro-Ams Clobber PNA In Title Series Opener

Brilliant One-Hitter by Lutska Turns Back Losers in 16-1 Rout

Brilliant one-hit hurling added to 17-hit attack on opposing pitching gave the Cro-Ams a 16-1 victory over PNA in the first game of a best-of-five series in the City Softball League championship series with PNA last night.

They clash again tonight at 6 o'clock at Ninth Street Park.

Elmer Lutska fashioned the one-hitter, last night, giving up a single by pinch-hitter Joe Gladys in the seventh inning when PNA scored its only run.

Lutska actually had the no-hitter sewed up when he fanned the batter preceding Gladys, but the Cro-Am catcher dropped the ball and Marple, the batter, reached first base. Gladys then struck his safe blow.

The Cro-Ams scored one run in the first inning on a home-run by Pete Prezgar, then tallied six runs in each of the second and third innings, a single marker in the fifth and two more in the sixth. Of the 17 hits garnered by the winners, two were triples one a double in addition to the homer. The three-baggers came off the bat of Tony Crisi, the double by Lutska.

Prezgar had four hits, including a homer, John Pallini three singles, and Harpo Selelyo two singles to pace the winners in addition to the blows by Crisi and Lutska.

"Stush" Nickolich will probably pitch for the Cro-Ams tonight while Paul Petrusky will undoubtedly get the nod for PNA.

Hound Coach Searches for Placekicker

Armand Niccolai, Monessen High grid coach, began searching for a place-kicker at last night's practice sessions but had difficulty discovering anyone who could "boot em with ease."

So, the "old master", Nick himself, who set many records while kicking field goals and extra points for the Pittsburgh Pirates (now Steelers) pro team in the early thirties, showed his proteges he still had "the knack."

After teeing up the ball, Niccolai kicked from a practically standing position, takng just two short "slow motion" steps to exhibit proper foot position to the 'Hounds and repeatedly kicked the ball 40 to 50 yards.

Later on, during the kicking session, with further instruction from "Nick", some of the 'Hounds were beginning to find the range.

Most of yesterday afternoon's drill was spent in lining up for kickoffs, both offensively and defensively, assistant coach Harry McCurdy sending those not taking part in the kickoff practice, through the play patterns.

Drills continue today with a scrimmage session probably set for today or tomorrow.

Cooper-Fraser Cop U. S. Doubles Title

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass. (UP) —Ashley Cooper and Neale Fraser packed the American men's doubles championship off to Australia today and then headed for New York with covetous eyes on the U.S. singles title.

"We played the game we wanted and carried the fight to them," said the victorious young Aussies after they defeated Wimbledon champions Budge Patty and Gardnar Mulloy, 4-6, 6-3, 9-7, 6-3, in a twice-postponed final Tuesday at the Longwood Cricket Club.

Althea Gibson and Darlene Hard, another pair of Wimbledon champs, also went off to Forest Hills wagging their title hopes behind them. Rated as good choices to dethrone defenders Louise Brough and Mrs. Margaret Osborne Du Pont, they went down instead rather easily, 6-2, 7-5, as the veterans took their 12th women's crown.

Cooper, the 20-year-old Australian singles champ who's great when he feels like it, felt like it Tuesday with a thundering serve that the Americans never solved.

And there was no defense against the deft passing and placements of the 23-year-old Fraser.

Martinez-Gomes On TV Tonight

BOSTON (UP) — Third-ranked Isidro Martinez ruled a slight favorite to snap Harold Gomes' string of 12 straight victories in their 10 - round nationally - televised featherweight duel tonight at Boston Arena.

But Martinez, who holds wins over Ike Chestnut and the recently-retired Bobby Courchesne, will be meeting Gomes at the peak of the Providence puncher's career. Gomes has been beate only by Boston's Tommy Tibbs, whom he had defeated in an earlier bout.

Both were in top physical condition and confident of turning in impressive performances in hopes of gaining added stature in the 126-pound division.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Poor Chipping

Good chipping is the essence of good scoring. No matter how good the player, he's bound to miss a few greens with his iron shots. His next move is to get the ball up close for a one-putt green. A dozen shots or more is often the difference between good chipping and bad. So remember, good chipping can make an 80-shooter out of a 90-shooter.

Good chipping calls first for choosing the proper club. Take one deep enough to pitch safely on the green, leaving about eight feet or so as a safety margin. Pick the spot on the green where you want the ball to hit, then concentrate on making the ball hit at the spot.

Make the stroke firm and decisive, down and through the ball. Follow through smoothly, low along the ground, and in the direction of the hole. Keep your head in place until after the ball is on its way. And last but not least, have a positive attitude about the shot; think in terms of getting down in two.

Hickory Smoke Wins Coveted Hambletonian

DU QUOIN, Ill. (UP)—Hickory Smoke, a crippled bay colt of blue ribbon lineage, had to trot the second and fourth fastest heats in Hambletonian history to convince his driver, Johnny Simpson that he could win trotting's richest 3-year-old stakes.

Then he coasted home by half-a-length in front of Hoot Song, the daughter of another Hambletonian winner, to grab the top possible prize of $47,917.62 in the 32nd running of the famed harness event.

Simpson, 37, winning the stakes for the first time, thought 2:01 would win the prized chase. But his horse was crippled a month ago and started only twice since. Two weeks ago he barked a leg and since then he was under constant treatment.

"I was confident we could win after our heat," Simpson said. "I was worried about them, particularly Buckeye Demon and Storm Cloud."

Hickory Smoke had the answer to Buckeye Demon and Storm Cloud and every other opponent. He trotted his first heat in 2:01, then the third fastest time on record for the race. An hour later he turned the second heat in 2:00 1-5, the second fastest time in history and only 1-5th of a second off the record set by Hoot Mon in 1947.

It was a match race against Hoot Song, who was clocked at 2:02 1-5 and 2:02 in winning her two heats against nine challengers. Hence, the time of the final mile was below 2:08 4-5. Hickory Smoke followed the swiftly-opening gate to go in front by a length and when Hoot Song made no attempt to get in front, he simply held the margin.

Yogi Having 'Lousy Year' But Still Gives Yanks Needed Lift

By MILTON RICHMAN

Yogi Berra claims he's having a "lousy year," but it's still plenty good enough to give the Yankees a pennant lift every time they seem to need it most.

By most standards this hasn't been a particularly good year for Yogi. He's batting only .248 and that figure hardly appears to command the $65,000 the Yankees are paying him this year.

The White Sox, however, are convinced he's worth every penny of it, especially after what he did to them Tuesday night. Berra batted in six runs, breaking Chicago's back with a three run homer in the eighth inning that snapped a 6-all tie and powered the Yanks to a 12-6 victory.

Yanks Pad Lead

Yogi's 20th homer, which represented only one of his four hits, also halted a six - game Chicago winning streak and a growing impression that the White Sox might overtake the Yankees in the American League race. By winning, the Yankees increased their lead to 4½ games.

The Red Sox defeated the Tigers, 7-5, in 11 innings; Cleveland edged Baltimore, 5-4, and Kansas City beat Washington, 3-1.

Over in the National League, the Milwaukee Braves continued their march toward the World Series with a 4-3 triumph over the Giants. The Cubs beat the Dodgers, 9-4; Cincinnati licked Philadelphia, 5-2, and the Pirates defeated the Cardinals, 2-1, after St. Louis scored an 11-2 win in the completion of a game suspended on July 21.

Dick Gernert supplied the winning blow for Boston in the 11th when he smacked a two-run single off Duke Maas. The hit scored Jackie Jensen and Ted Williams, who collected his 32nd homer and a single in four trips to the plate, raising his league-leading average to .380

Burdette Gets 14th

Early Wynn scattered eight hits in notching his 14th victory at the expense of the Orioles and Jack Urban of the Athletics held the Senators to three hits in beating Camilo Pascual.

Home runs by Red Schoendienst, Eddie Mathews and Frank Torre carried the Braves to their victory over the Giants.

Lew Burdette registered his 14th victory of the season for the Braves with the help of rookie Don McMahon, who retired the last six batters in order. It was Milwaukee's fifth victory in the last seven games.

Ernie Banks drove in five runs with his 30th home run and a double as rookie Dick Drott of the Cubs registered his first victory over the Dodgers. Drott had to be bailed out by Turk Lown in the ninth after the Brooks scored two runs. Don Newcombe suffered his 11th defeat. Gil Hodes homered for the Dodgers, who dropped eight games off the pace.

Musial Increases Streak

Bob Thurman, recalled from the minors Monday, blasted a three-run homer in the ninth to help the Redlegs snap a three-game losing streak.

Lindy McDaniel was credited with his 11th victory in the Cards-Pirates suspended game which was resumed in the ninth inning. By serving as a pinch runner, Stan Musial added 33 games to his consecutive playing streak which came to a halt last Friday at 895 games, a NL record.

Friend Tosses Five-Hit Ball, Beats Cards, 2-1

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Bob Friend allowed five hits and won his 10th victory of the season Tuesday night as Pittsburgh decisioned St. Louis, 2-1, in a regular contest after the Cardinals routed the Pirates, 11-2, in the completion of a suspended game.

A 1-1 tie in the eighth was broken when Bill Mazerowski singled to score Bob Skinner.

Friend, with a record of 10-16, missed a shutout on an unearned run in the third inning when a wild throw by Frank Thomas to first allowed Alvin Dark to score from second.

Both Friend and his losing opponent, Von McDaniel, went the route. Lindy, Von's older brother, allowed only seven hits to notch his 11th victory in the suspended game. Lindy cracked out four of Chicago's 17 hits and drove in two runs.

Stan Musial, suffering a shoulder injury, entered the suspended game at the point of resumption in the Cardinal half of the ninth inning. He ran for Key Boyer and stayed in at second base.

Musial, by playing in the suspended contest, added 33 games to his consecutive streak which came to a halt at 895 last Friday night to give him a National League record.

Williams Jumps Batting Lead

DETROIT (UP) — Ted Wilhams has opened a four-point lead over Mickey Mantle in their blazing battle for the American League batting championship.

Williams thus gained one point to .380; Mantle slipped one point to .376, and the previous two-point margin between them was doubled.

Musial's Streak Ends at 295 Tilts

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The "long playing" record of Stan Musial went into the National League books at 895 consecutive games today, but the St. Louis Cardinals' star wasn't perturbed because his streak was over.

The Donora, (Pa.) dandy entered the resumption of the suspended game against the Pirates in the ninth inning Tuesday night. He ran for Ken Boyer and then played first base when the Pirates took their last turn at bat. Musial's record was temporarily halted at 862 games when he did not appear in the lineup against Pittsburgh when the game originally started July 21. Play was suspended that day in the ninth inning because of the Pennsylvania Sunday curfew, and Stan had an opportunity to extend his own record.

A writer asked Stan Tuesday night if he had any regrets because his "iron man" stint came to an end.

"None at all," Musial replied. "It doesn't take any talent to play every day."

Career Craft Started Here Ends in Majors

(Editor's Note: When Harry Craft was named to manage the Kansas City Athletics midway through this season succeeding Lou Boudreau, the story had considerable "Monessen interest" in that Craft had started his professional baseball career here as a member of the Monessen team in the Penn State Association in 1935. The following story, part of which appeared in the Sporting News, traces Craft's career.)

Harry Craft, recently named Kansas City Athletics manager in the American League, started his baseball career here playing for Monessen in the Penn State Association in 1935. He led the league that season in stolen bases with 39

The talented outfielder then started a climb which led to the Cincinnati Reds (now Redlegs) in 1937.

The new manager of the Athletics was born in Ellisville, Miss., in 1915 and still speaks with a faint Dixie drawl. He attended Mississippi College.

While here in 1935 he roomed with the Samuel Destefano family on Donner Ave., now residing at Rostraver St.

Craft reached the Cincinnati Reds in 1937 and remained with them through 1942. He appeared in the 1939 World's Series, getting one hit in 11 trips and fielding without a miscue. He then was traded to Kansas City in a deal by which the Reds acquired Eric Tipton. He remained with the Blues through 1948, taking time out for military service. In his last year he was assistant to the manager, the late Bill Meyer.

Harry began his managerial career withe Independence, Kan. club of the K-O-M League in 1949 One of his star pupils was a young shortstop named Mickey Mantle Mickey gives Craft credit for having guided him through his early months as a professional.

Independence won the pennant that season; Craft, with Mantle following him, then led Joplin to a Western Association pennant in 1950 He finished fourth as Beaumont (Texas) manager in 1951 and seventh with the same club in '52.

Craft had managed the Kansas City Blues in 1953 and '54, finishing second in the American Association in 1953 and seventh the following season. He is well known to fans in the Kansas City area.

He was named a coach by Lou Boudreau, recently deposed manager prior to last season.

Craft at one time owned a sporting goods store in Iowa, selling out several years ago and moving to Texas. The past two winters he has remained in Kansas City, touring the area for a brewing company, sponsor of the A's broadcasts.

Harry is a man not given to any histrionics. He is quiet-spoken but frank with his answers. He was considered to have done a good job as manager of the Blues. He hasn't the color to impress himself on the fans; he makes no effort to be noticed. Normally tolerant, he can be extremely firm when the occasion demands.

Craft, the owner said, certainly would be considered for manager next year, although the agreement was for the new skipper to fill out this season.

"Craft knows baseball," said Johnson. "We'll see what he can do and what developments there are by the time the season ends before we worry about next season."

Urge Record Of Footprints

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UP) — An official of the FBI said Monday footprints are a quick and positive method of identifying lost or kidnapped children and urged that hospital personnel be trained in the method.

C. Lester Trotter, assistant director of the FBI, told delegates to the 42nd annual conference of the International Association for Identification that footprints are just as distinctive as fingerprints.

He told the more than 200 identification officers attending the conference that the infant's foot is more ridged than the fingers and palm. He suggested that authorities volunteer to teach hospital staffs footprinting methods.

Bethlehem Boss Out To Merge Big Firms In Steel Industry

By CLYDE H. FARNSWORTH

NEW YORK (UP) — Eugene Gifford Grace, who was 81 yesterday, hopes to cap his rags-to-riches career in the steel industry with the biggest corporate merger on record.

The crusty chairman of Bethlehem Steel Corp. is out to weld the country's second largest steel producer with Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., the sixth largest, in a move that would create a new company with sales and assets topping $2,500,000,000.

Eugene Grace

He has moved in opposition to Uncle Sam's legal arm, the Justice Department, which is waging a stepped up campaign against big business mergers that it feels would lessen competition in violation of the anti-trust laws.

Grace says that, on the contrary, a Bethlehem-Youngstown merger would spur competition and open up new markets. A federal court is deciding the issue.

No matter how it turns out, Grace's place in modern steel industry history is assured.

Called Great Steelman

Called the "greatest steel man in the country" by Charles M. Schwab, who founded U.S. Steel Corp and later Bethlehem, Grace helped forge an empire that can turn out almost half as much steel as the entire Soviet Union

Grace was born while Ulysses S. Grant was president and joined Bethlehem in 1899.

"Let it be your guiding, impelling aim to take the boss' job away from him," Grace once told a reporter From the way he shot up the Bethlehem executive ladder, it was apparent he followed the advice closely himself.

Starting as an electric craneman, Grace went from $1.80 a day to a million dollars a year and the company presidency by the time he was 36

Attracts Schwab's Attention

Early in his career Grace attracted Schwab's attention. Throughout much of his life Grace was known as "Charlie Schwab's boy."

During World War I Schwab went to Washington as a dollar a year man" and left Bethlehem's war effort to "the greatest steel man in the country."

Through war and peace Bethlehem prospered, not only as a steel company, but also as a shipbuilding organization. Today it stands not only as the second largest steel company, behind only U.S. Steel, but as the country's largest shipbuilding concern.

High on Grace's list of accomplishments have been good employe and public relations. He instituted an annual report to employes. Last month he missed his first quarterly press conference since 1920 because of illness. At these conferences, held to report on quarterly operations, he is usually witty and outspoken.

Uses Bright Phrases

He is fond of using phrases like "no meat on the bone" to describe the gap between costs and prices, "cash on the barrelhead" when describing an inventory backlog of "hell yes" when answering whether he is optimistic about the economy.

Grace's life work has been almost exclusively the advancement and prosperity of Bethlehem. In this he has followed such policies as promotion from within ranks based on proven merit, and ineligibility of directors' sons to enter the company's employ.

Grace, a short, wiry man, who believes "you must build up your body to build up your brain or your business," is one of the few men who can shoot his age on the golf course.

Tranquilizer Pill For Nervous Pets

LONDON (UP) — A British company today put on the market a tranquilizer pill for animals.

The company said the pill will stop dogs from barking, and relieve nervousness, anxiety and apprehension in high-strung animals.

The tranquilizer is being offered to veterinarians with the claim that it is effective on dogs, cats and other pets.

Kidnaping Charges Dropped

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Protests from an indignant public Tuesday resulted in the dropping of kidnaping charges against a young Marine corporal and his wife.

Cpl. Don James McCarty, 21, a file clerk at the Marine Quartermaster Depot here, and his wife, Esther, 18, had been charged with kidnaping his younger brother, Ralph, 13, and Wanda, 16, from a Franklin, Tenn., orphanage last Saturday. They were taken into custody on a fugitive warrant sworn out by John M. Wenger, superintendent of the orphanage, The Baptist Children's Home.

When the story broke in newspapers, radio and on television, protests poured into the District Attorney's office demanding their release. Friends and officers of the corporal also rallied to his support.

Acting District Attorney Paul M Chalfin, overwhelmed by the number of protests, telephoned Wenger at the orphanage and told him of the protests. Wenger then agreed to withdraw the charges provided McCarty returned the children and paid their expenses for the return trip. The couple, who had been held without bail pending a hearing Friday, were then freed.

Wanted Children

McCarty, who spent six years in the same orphanage, said he had talked with the superintendent about the possibility of taking his brother and sister to live with him and his wife in their Philadelphia apartment. But he was told that nothing could be done immediately.

The Marine said he and his wife then left Tennessee for Philadelphia. About two miles from the Franklin orphanage, they saw the children walking along the road. He said they pleaded to go along but he ordered them to return to the orphanage.

McCarty said they continued their pleadings and he could not "force my own brother and sister to return if they didn't want to."

McCarty said his father died in 1944 and his mother was killed in an auto accident in 1951. He said there were six children in the family and "I've been helping to take care of the kids since I was a small boy."

Ralph and Wanda were held by juvenile authorities as runaways pending their return to the orphanage.

Senate Probe Of Spare Parts At Arctic Bases

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Investigating subcommittee today sought to learn from Air Force officials how 44 million dollars worth of excess spare parts accumulated at nine Arctic bases

Maj. Gen. John D Ryan, director of materiel of the Strategic Air Command, was called as an early witness The Strategic Air Command took over major bases in the area from the Northeast Air Command last April 1.

The subcommittee said some of the surpluses had been accumulating since the Korean War. Some spare parts were stored on the Arctic beaches and were damaged by the weather, it said.

Committee Chairman John L McClellan (D-Ark.) said the Air Force, Defense Department and Army learned of the excess supplies from the committee, opened their own investigation and are expected to improve the supply system.

McClellan said that in one case a warrant officer buried $33,000 worth of extra parts.

The chairman said the subcommittee wants to know the amount of government waste involved in the case, whether similar excesses exist around the world, and whether the Air Force supply system operates efficiently.

McClellan said the military investigation, still continuing, has turned up millions of dollars worth of excess parts.

Ike Signs Bill, But in Protest

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower signed with misgivings today a bill increasing service-connected disability compensation for veterans and increasing dependency allowances.

The President said the bill inadequately compensated some veterans and provided more than necessary increases for others.

But he said he signed the measure despite its defects because to do otherwise would deprive veterans with service-connected disabilities of any adjustment in their compensation.

Cries in His Beer

PASSAIC, N.J. (UP)—Walter Deveikas, 36, of Clifton, N.J., admitted withdrawing $2,800 from another man's savings account, police said, but claimed he had not spent the money foolishly. "I bought a lot of beer," police quoted Deveikas as saying, "and I'll drink beer until I die."

Medal Offered to Korean 'Unknown'

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate has passed and sent to the White House legislation authorizing the President to give the Congressional Medal of Honor to the "Unknown Soldier" of the Korean conflict. The unknown GI will be buried in Arlington National Cemetery under terms of a bill passed last year.

Killed in Reformatory Riot

BUENA VISTA, Colo. (UP)—A small band of guards charged into a mob of 100 rioters at the Colorado Reformatory Tuesday night and quelled the disturbance within an hour.

Warden James Thomas said he couldn't understand the outbreak of violence which left one inmate dead and two others gravely injured.

"The only reason we've heard is that the boys thought they were worked too hard," Thomas said.

Most of the 380 inmates, some teen-aged first offenders and others with extensive criminal records, work on farm land and are now in harvest season.

Everesto Gomez, 23, of Denver, who touched off the riot by attacking guard Robert Allinger with a table leg, was shot to death.

Gov. Steve McNichols ordered an investigation today of what Thomas called the first major outbreak at the reformatory "to my knowledge." Thomas has been warden here for 13 years.

The warden said "everything had been no indication that a riot had been normal and quiet. There was impending."

He said it was started by eight or nine ringleaders, all of a hardened type, but punishment will "wait until the governor investigates."

Richard Benjamin, 19, and Jerry Troxell, 21, underwent surgery for gunshot wounds in the back and stomach at Rio Grande Hospital at nearby Salida, Colo.

Allinger, the guard, was in fair condition with a possible skull fracture. Another guard, Sam Montgomery, about 45, was beaten on the head. He was released from the hospital after treatment.

The word "mollusk" means "soft-bodied." Most mollusks secrete a protective shell to which they add as they grow larger, and which they never leave.

No 'Official' Name for Flu

WASHINGTON (UP)—Is it Oriental flu, Asiatic flu or Asian flu?

All three names have been used since the new virus was discovered in Hong Kong last April.

There is no "official" name, but the U.S. Public Health Service has recently settled on the term "Asian flu." This usage is now rapidly becoming standard in medical and scientific papers.

But "Asiatic flu" is all right, too. Many of the Public Health Service doctors use it in conversation.

For the scientifically - minded, the really correct name is "A'-Hong Kong 1957"—meaning it is a train of the A-prime type of influenza and was first noted in Hong Kong this year.

Last-ditch Talks To Avert Strike

NEW YORK (UP) — Negotiations reached the last-ditch stage today in efforts to avert a strike by 23,000 telephone equipment installers in most of the nation.

More than 30 installers walked off their jobs Tuesday in Rawsonville, Ann Arbor and Detroit, Michigan Bell Telephone Co. said.

Joseph Dunne, spokesman for the Communications Workers of America, said the union will be "pretty close to a strike" against Western Electric Co. if no significant progress is made today. "We just can't stand at a deadlocked position," he said.

The old contract expired at midnight Sunday. The union has demanded a 58-cent-an-hour package increase and the company has offered a four- to nine-cent raise.

Democrat William Proxmire Wins Big Upset Victory in Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—Democrat William Proxmire, Wisconsin's upset choice to replace the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, asked state officials today to cut unnecessary red tape so he can get to Washington immediately.

The 41-year-old baldish Proxmire defeated former Gov. Walter Kohler, an Eisenhower Republican, by a whopping 116,000-vote majority.

The state Democratic Party called the election of Wisconsin's first Democratic senator since 1932 "an earthquake victory."

Returns from 3,359 of 3,361 precincts gave Proxmire 435,467 votes and Kohler 318,894. Three other independent candidates never were in the running and got fewer than 25,000 votes combined.

"Anxious" For Work

Proxmire asked the Wisconsin secretary of state to accept unofficial returns and certify him as the state's newly-elected senator.

"I'm anxious to get to work," Proxmire said.

His victory increased the Democrats' ratio in the Senate to 50-46. Democrats in the state and nation hailed Proxmire's election in this traditionally Republican state as a "revolt" of farmers and small businessmen against the Eisenhower administration.

William Proxmire

Proxmire was ahead of Kohler in the balloting from the start. A trend was evident shortly after the polls closed when returns from traditionally GOP precincts gave Proxmire the edge.

His lead mounted steadily. At 10:12 p.m. e.d.t., he claimed victory and 25 years of Democratic frustration was ended.

At his home in Kohler, Wis., Proxmire's foe, who had beaten him twice in gubernatorial elections, refused to comment.

Sights Full Term

Telephone calls to the Kohler home went unanswered and the house was dark. Kohler, who had never lost an election, was heavily favored and apparently took the setback hard.

Milwaukee attorney Howard Boyle, who campaigned as a "McCarthy Republican," got 20,451 votes; Douglas Wheaton, an "Always America First" candidate, got 2,260, and Mrs. Georgia Cozzini, a Socialist Laborite, got 762.

Kohler's expected strength in rural areas never materialized. Proxmire won 56 of the state's 71 counties. He also nailed down populous Milwaukee county, which had been viewed as pivotal.

Proxmire will serve out the remainder of McCarthy's term, which ends in January, 1959. Even as the vote totals came in, Proxmire was looking ahead to campaigning for the full six-year term.

Proxmire said he overcame three obstacles in defeating Kohler: "President Eisenhower's personal endorsement of Kohler . . . Kohler's status as three-time Wisconsin governor . . . and the perennial GOP majority in the state."

Social Security Program in No Bankruptcy Danger, Experts Say

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UP) —An organization with $22,500,000,000 in liquid assets is being kept busy these days assuring its clients that it is not going broke.

The organization is the Social Security Administration. The clients who are concerned about its solvency are oldsters and not-so-oldsters who have built their retirement plans around monthly social security checks.

They have been telephoning, writing and calling in person at social security offices to inquire about published reports that the government's huge old age and survivors' insurance program is "running into the red."

Their inquiries would be easy to answer if social security officials could dismiss the whole thing as a wild rumor. But the truth, as usual, is a good deal more complicated than that—even if no more alarming.

It is a fact that social security, for the first time in its 20-year history, is paying out more money for benefits this year than it is collecting in payroll taxes.

Interest Bridges Gap

Interest payments on the $22,500,000,000 worth of government bonds in the social security trust fund will bridge the gap between income and outgo during 1957, and will leave a surplus of about one million dollars to be added to the trust fund at the end of the year. So there's no red ink on the social security books yet.

Next year, however, the old age insurance system may actually show a small deficit, even after interest payments from the trust fund are figured in.

By 1959, it will be necessary to dip into the trust fund reserves for perhaps as much as 750 million dollars to balance the books.

Obviously, if this trend continued very long it would lead to bankruptcy — even in an organization with more than 22 billion dollars in reserves.

But social security officials say there is no danger that it will continue past 1959. A law already on the books provides that the social security payroll tax, now 2¼ per cent each on employers and employes, will go up to 2¾ per cent each at the start of 1960.

This increase in revenue will put social security safely back into the black. And although benefit payments will continue to rise in the future, so will the payroll tax.

Provide Automatic Increases

Congress has provided for automatic increases every five years through 1975, if the law remains as is, the tax will finally level off in 1975 at 4¼ per cent for employers, 4¼ per cent for employes, a total of 8½ per cent.

With this kind of money coming in, social security and its clients can face the future with confidence. Projections by chief actuary Robert J. Myers indicate that social security will show a surplus every year after 1959 until at least 2010. By that time, the trust fund is expected to reach $115,962,000,000.

Myers' figures show the trust fund interest payments combined. But a Congress meeting 60 years hence could avoid the downturn by another slight upward revision of the payroll tax.

Social security benefits for retired workers now range from a minimum of $24 to a maximum of $108.50 a month for an individual. For a couple, both of whom are over 65, the monthly check may be as high as $162.80. If a future Congress should decide to raise these benefits — without a compensating increase in the payroll tax—that would of course throw the acturaries' computations out of gear.

The temporary dip into red ink which lies directly ahead of social security was foreseen by the actuaries when the present schedule of tax increases was enacted by Congress in 1956. But it has come a little sooner than the experts figured.

The reason is that about 375,000 self - employed farmers — considerably more than social security expected — have qualified for retirement benefits since Congress extended social security coverage to them in 1954.

Following the same formula which has been applied to all newly-covered groups in every extension of social security coverage since 1937, Congress provided a short-cut to benefits for farmers who were already approaching or past 65 when the law was passed. They could qualify for lifetime benefit checks by paying social security taxes on their farm earnings for two crop years.

This was a windfall for many elderly farmers. For example, a farm couple past 65 could pay as little as $24 in taxes in 1955 and 1956, and start drawing checks for $142.50 a month in 1957.

Although the resulting rush of over-65 farmers to social security offices has raised costs above expectation in 1957, officials point out that this is a "one-time" problem which will have no significant effect on the long-range financial soundness of the insurance system.

Social security is not likely to encounter a similar problem in the future, because there are no more large groups of people to be brought under coverage. About 90 per cent of the nation's work force is now covered by social security, and another 5 per cent by other government retirement programs.

Drowns Three Children

QUEEN CITY, Que. (UP)— A high-ranking police official Tuesday night hurled two of his children to their deaths in the St. Lawrence River, then leaped to his own death clutching his third child.

Authorities said Roland Masse, 42, chief of the detectives in the Quebec City police force was walking along a pier when he suddenly flung his son, Richard, 4, and a daughter, Michelline, 8, into the harbor.

The third child, Lisette, 12, ran along the pier, screaming hysterically for help. But, as bystanders looked on in horror, Masse caught the child when she tripped over a coil of rope. He then leaped into the water clutching her in his arms.

Crewmembers of a ship tied up nearby threw life buoys into the water in a futile rescue attempt.

Authorities said Masse had appeared depressed the last two months. They said he left his office Tuesday evening, went home and told his wife he was taking the children for a drive in a police cruiser.

The children were walking along the pier with their father as darkness was setting in when he suddenly turned on them.

Authorities said it probably would be at least two days before any of the bodies could be recovered because the tragedy took place during an ebb tide.

A defense against temporary blindness caused by flares and explosions and a unique method of crime detection may result from vision research at Illinios Institute of Technology, Chicago.

Magazine Attorney On Stand

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Defense attorney Arthur J. Crowley today resumes his efforts to establish that Confidential magazine authenticated its spicy yarns and rejected "vicious" stories about such big names as Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Marilyn Monroe.

The defense strategy in the Confidential criminal libel trial Tuesday was directed at attempting to show the so-called scandal magazine printed only the truth and rejected falsehoods. The key defense witness was New York attorney Albert De Stefano.

De Stefano was expected to end his testimony in today's session. He is a member of the New York law firm of Becker, Ross and Stone, which was hired to check potential Confidential stories for libel and obscenity.

The attorney testified that an article submitted about Mrs. Roosevelt, widow of the late president, was turned down on the advice of his firm because it was "a vicious story that went back several years." He said former Confidential Editor Howard Rushmore carried on a "running battle" with him in an attempt to get the story printed.

Rushmore appeared earlier in the trial as a prosecution witness. He testified that he quit Confidential when the magazine "began specializing in pornography."

De Stefano said he had many arguments with Rushmore over changes in stories.

"We also argued about a story dealing with Marilyn Monroe and a photographer named Sam Shaw," De Stefano said. "I rejected it because it was written on hearsay."

State Lifts Ban on Potato Wart Fungus

By UNITED PRESS

The state Department of Agriculture has lifted a 38-year quarantine against potato wart fungus. The quarantine prohibited the planting of the vegetable in infested soils.

The quarantine lifted today was for areas in Wayne, Cambria, Lackawanna, Sullivan and Susquehanna counties. Other counties previously under the ban were Schuylkill, Jefferson, Clearfield, Bedford, and Centre counties.

The disease, which causes unsightly lumps on tubers, persists for years in warm soils. It is killed with heavy applications of copper sulfate although it has never been discovered in commercial acreages in the state.

The fungus believed to have come from Europe, first showed up in Hazleton, Pennsylvania in 1918 and spread through 16 coal mining regions.

Work Week

A survey by the U. S. Department of Agriculture reveals that the farm workday is slowly but surely becoming shorter.

Bill Carroll, a Penn State extension agricultural economist, said cutbacks in farm working hours per day in nearly all states were reported. He said farmers averaged 10.7 hours of work per day around June 1 of this year. At the same time in 1956, the average was 10.9 hours per day and 11.2 in 1955.

Carroll attributed the shorter workday to the cutback in the time spent on chores. He said gains in labor are possible through such items as increased sizes of flocks and herds, improved arrangement of buildings, the use of more modern equipment and the changing around of chore routines.

The specialist said one test showed where annual dairy chore labor was reduced from 225 hours labor per cow to less than 70 hours through increased efficiency.

Hay

The Penn State extension service has advised farmers whose supply of roughage is low due to the drought to replenish their stock now before hay prices rise and winter travel conditions prevail.

Dick Adams, Penn State extension specialist, said that an abundant amount of hay is available in northwestern Pennsylvania and in Central New York.

Adams said the drought conditions this summer have forced many dairymen to barn-feed their animals with the result that they will have to buy roughage for feeding over next Winter.

GOP Predicts Ike Will Veto Federal Pay Bill

WASHINGTON (UP)—Republicans predicted today President Eisenhower will veto as inflationary Congress-passed pay boosts for $1,488,000 federal workers.

The two big pay boost bills would fatten the pay envelopes for postal and government white collar workers an estimated $816,640,000 a year.

The Senate Tuesday night overwhelmingly approved both bills despite strong administration objections and persistent forecasts of presidential vetoes. The bills—already easily cleared through the House—were sent to the White House.

The President has repeatedly denounced the bills as inflationary. Senate GOP Leader William F. Knowland flatly predicted Eisenhower would veto both of them. Others echoed the prediction.

The legislation cleared the Senate by a top-heavy margin. The postal pay bill was approved by a roll call vote of 69-17. The vote on the raise for white collar Civil Service employes was 63-22.

The postal pay bill would affect about 518,000 letter carriers and other Post Office Department field workers and would cost an estimated 279 million dollars a year. Their average increase would be $546 a year.

The companion measure would give an average raise of $515 a year to 960,000 Civil Service workers at an estimated cost of $537,640,000 annually. The maximum raise would be $1,000 and employes earning more than $16,000 would not be affected.

Valley Credit Unions Picnic Day Saturday

The first picnic ever sponsored by the Credit Unions of southwestern Pennsylvania as a group will be held at Kennywood Park on Saturday.

Many outings have been conducted by the various chapters, but this is the initial time a combined get-together of this kind has been staged.

Tickets at one-third off regular price are being offered. In addition, a grand drawing is scheduled for late afternoon.

There also will be free thrill shows at 4:30 and 9:30 p. m. at the Lagoon Stage.

Aircraft Firms Wage Competitive Race to Get Out Commercial Jets

(Second of Four Dispatches)

By GLENN STACKHOUSE

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Down in the southwest corner of the United States, the engineers of Convair Division of General Dynamics are putting together an airplane that will soon offer the civilian the nearest thing to supersonic travel in history.

This company is one of the three titans of aviation who are pioneering the age of jet travel in a determined effort to keep America the world leader in commercial aircraft production.

Convair's entry in the race is the Convair 880, this country's first medium range jet airliner, which is designed to cruise at 615 m.p.h. At its cruising altitude of 40,000 feet, that's only 57 miles an hour short of the sonic barrier!

Tops Foreign Competitors

At that speed, the 880 will top the Russian Tupolev and the French Caravelle by a cool 115 m.p.h. and will be able to run away from the heavier and larger intercontinental jobs being built by America's competitors.

Its secret is its power plants. The plane will have four General Electric C808-3 turbojets which are the commercial version of the engines powering Convair's B58 Hustler atomic bomber which recently attained a speed above 1,000 m.p.h.

The plane will be able to carry 88 to 109 passengers and will fly efficiently at any range from 250 to 4,000 miles, according to Convair. This means it would be well suited for such schedules as San Francisco-New York non stop and for short flights.

The first 880s will be turned over to airline customers by September, 1960.

Elsewhere on the West Coast's booming aviation row," Boeing is putting the finish touches on what is a cinch to become the first American jet airliner to carry a ticket-buying customer.

Boeing Helps Military

Boeing, builder of the famous B17s and B29s and architect of today's globe - circling B52 atomic bomber, has been test-flying its 707 commercial jet for three years. The rakish jetliner could have been carrying airline colors months ago.

But the Air Force got first look at the 707 and it convinced the generals that this was the plane they needed as a flying tanker for the B52. They exercised their priority, and just one year and three days later the first production model rolled out of the factory. Except for the Air Force insignia and a tail stinger to deliver fuel, it was the same airplane as the 707.

Since then the airline brass have been jostling each other in line as they waited for production to catch up to the military orders.

Despite the "setback," Boeing is miles ahead of its competitors and the first commercial 707 is scheduled to roll out of the Renton, Wash., plant about Oct. 1 of this year. The guaranteed delivery date after flight testing is a vague "late in 1958" but company sources say it may come by next summer or earlier.

Douglas Also Vieing

In Santa Monica, next door to Los Angeles, Douglas is moving toward its jet age with the calm, unhurried deliberation of the master craftsman. The Douglas entry is the DC8, a big, four engined continental and inter - continental job which the company hopes will be the DC3 of the jet era.

This is no small ambition, even for the firm that has built more than half of the commercial transports in world service today. If the DC8 can do half as much for aviation in 1960 as the precocious DC3 did in 1934, it will be doing something.

The twin-engined DC3, termed by the Air Force "the best single airplane ever built," was the model-T of the airways. A total of 10,926 were built and at one time they carried 90 per cent of the world's airline traffic.

In the DC8, Douglas is reaching for what its executives call "a new plateau" in air transport. The DC3 cruised at 180 m.p.h. The DC8, cruising at 550 m.p.h., will carry a payload of 35,930 pounds with a range of 4,850 miles.

Legislator Has Hip Operation

Walter, 63-year-old chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, suffered the injury when he fell on the marble steps of the House Office Building last Friday.

Doctors at the nearby Georgetown University Hospital said Walter is in "extremely good condition" and expect an early recovery.

How to buy "vitamins"
Door-to-door peddlers are around now, selling vitamin preparations and nutritional supplements. The talk is mighty convincing. But, remember, talk won't do a thing for you. There's only one way to be sure of what vitamin you need if any are needed at all. That is to see your family physician. He and he alone is qualified to prescribe for you. Always buy vitamins or nutritional supplements from a registered pharmacist. Then you'll know what you're getting—and you'll get your money's worth.

'Hit Parade' to Trot Out Five Fresh Faces

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP) —"Your Hit Parade" will trot out five fresh faces this TV season. And according to incoming bandleader Don Walker, the show will offer a new sound, too.

Walker will replace Raymond Scott, who filed out the door along with Gisele MacKenzie, Dorothy Collins, Snooky Lanson and Russell Arms. Walker's crew will be made up of Jill Corey, Ginny Gibson, Tommy Leonetti and Alan Copeland.

Walker, the 46-year-old scorer of such Broadway musicals as "Pajama Game," "Damn Yankees," and "The Most Happy Fella," feels the NBC-TV show was due for a musical overhaul.

"Up to now the policy on the show has leaned toward imitating the record that made a hit out of a song," said Walker. "The trouble with that was it was impossible in a TV studio to set up the artificial conditions that prevail in a recording studio. TV just can't gimmick up a sound the way records do.

Seeking Different Effect

"So, this season we're going to work for a different effect. We're going to try to get a closer coordination between the production and the music—you know, so the music s-a-y-s what your eyes are showing you."

The Hit Parade band (the same NBC house orchestra that Raymond Scott used;) will sound different, too, said Walker.

"I always score for TV and radio with a great deal of depth," said Walker. "And I try for a wide sound, too. You're going to hear a lot of highs and lows from the band, a lot of brilliance I don't like to waste notes, the idea is to have each one work.

"And there's going to be a lot of comedy in the music. I like humor in music. I like an amusing quality—it's the sort of thing I tried to get into 'Pal Joey,' another show I scored."

Walker, a product of Lambertville, N. J., and the University of Pennsylvania (where he made his musical debut as the sixth member of "Lew Chapman's Inter-Fraternity Five"), aimed originally at an accounting job. However, Fred Waring lured Walker into his stable as an arranger.

Scored 76 Broadway Shows

After four years with Waring, Walker turned to Broadway where he scored 76 shows. In recent years, he also has worked on TV commercials. His most noteworthy effort in this line—a musical miniature based on "The Most Happy Fella" for a cigar firm—brought him to the attention of the cigarette sponsor of "Your Hit Parade."

A student of the piano, pipe organ, sax, clarinet, flute and trombone, Walker will get one big break on "Your Hit Parade" this season—he should have more interesting tunes to work with than Raymond Scott.

"I don't think there's any doubt the ballad is making a comeback," said Walker, "and that rock 'n' roll is falling off a bit. I like some rock 'n' roll myself but since it's based on repetitive phrases, it tends to become monotonous over a long period.

"This season the show will get back to more of the moonlight dancing kind of thing and all of those wonderful romantic songs."

Polish-American Concert Saturday At Carnegie Hall

A Polish-American concert will be presented Saturday at Carnegie Music Hall, Pittsburgh, by two groups composed of amateur singers of the Polish National Catholic Church of the United States.

One of the groups is from Chicago and is known as the Chicago Circle Choir. It is directed by Robert Reuter, Oakland area organist. The choral numbers will be interspersed with organ selections by Reuter.

The Pittsburgh group taking part is the Polish Bard, United Choirs, and is directed by Donald P. Mushalko. He is a graduate of Carnegie Tech music department and teaches in the Baldwin Borough Schools. He will play violin numbers during the program.

A varied program is planned by the two groups and the concert is open to the public.

Why So Many People Don't Eat Breakfast

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Breakfast is a highly important meal. It should get your day off to a good start by including about one-third of the day's food intake to provide the energy necessary for the morning's activities.

Yet far too many of you either skip breakfast entirely or gulp down a cup of coffee and a doughnut and think you have eaten a meal.

Why is an adequate breakfast shunned by so many of us?

Well, a University of Pennsylvania doctor offers what seems like a logical explanation. And he has a couple of remedies for the situation, too.

Rising body temperature probably is a major component of appetite control, according to Dr. J. Brobeck.

Apparently, metabolism of food or high environmental temperature stimulates the medial part of the hypothalamus, which is the body's appetite control. Its stimulation then causes the capillaries of the skin to dilate in order to reduce the additional heat. Consequently, this results in a feeling of fullness.

Now body temperature is at its lowest in the morning before you get up. It rises as you move about.

So, Dr. Brobeck explains, the hypothalamus is being stimulated as you sit down to breakfast. It interprets this temperature increase as food intake — and there goes your appetite.

Dr. Brobeck has two suggestions on how to overcome this natural tendency, one of which I think you will like.

One way to develop a breakfast appetite — and this is Dr. Brobeck's idea, not mine — is to work and then rest before breakfast, just as the farmer does.

But he offers a second choice that probably will be more to your liking. Since moving around hikes the body temperature — just have breakfast in bed. Now that's a real good idea.

Being the Boss Is no Easy Life

NEW YORK (UP)—Being the boss isn't the easy job it is often cracked up to be.

He makes more money than his employees, but he pays more in taxes. He usually works longer hours, too.

If he gets fired, he has no grievance committee to go to bat for him.

While his employes are guaranteed a vacation under a union contract, the boss more often than not takes his on a catch-as-catch-can basis. Some top executives never get a vacation.

The American Management Association said a recent survey of top business executives showed that many executives either take no vacation at all or less than they are entitled to.

The reasons for missing out on vacations ranged from "too busy" to "I would rather work than take a vacation," the AMA said.

AMA said it polled 96 randomly selected top executives, including company presidents, vice presidents, board chairmen, general managers and treasurers.

Of the total, 42 said they used less than the total amount of vacation time allocated to them, while 6 said they took no vacation at all.

Of the remaining 48 respondents, 4 said they took more time than they had coming, 37 said they took the full time alloted and 7 said their vacations were left entirely to their own discretion.

The AMA said while companies complain that their executives don't take as much time off as they should, the companies' own lack of concern may have contributed to the situation.

"Only 8 of the respondents reported that their companies required them to take their full vacations," AMA noted.

While the boss had his problems getting away, his employees went traipsing around the world with their families.

The Chase Manhattan Bank noted recently that the paid vacation has turned into a major driving force in the economy.

It said this year some 80 million Americans will spend close to 15-billion dollars, or about 5 per cent of disposable personal incomes, enjoying the seashore, mountains and national parks.

"For many decades the American worker has taken about two-thirds of the gain in increased productivity in the form of higher dollar income and one-third as more leisure," the bank explained.

"First the work week was shortened from well over 50 hours in 1900 to about 40 hours in 1940. In recent years, paid holidays and paid vacations became the chief outlet for more leisure."

The bank said the paid vacation has helped to flatten the traditional summer slump. Retailers, who formerly had to sit the summer out, now find it one of their best seasons.
